About Trisha Ambara

Trisha, in Sanskrit, means hope, desire, and dream. Ambara means sky. Hence, Trisha Ambara entails to keep up hopes or desires high above the sky. In other words, don't give up, aim high, and do not lose hope.

Trisha Ambara is a sister organization of Word and Action, Inc., a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization that is headquartered in the United States, aimed at preventing and/or decreasing the occurrence of child sexual abuse. We promote a culturally-based approach to child sexual abuse prevention and treatment. We continue to focus on building an extensive network of national and international partnerships to support our mission and vision.

True to our mission, the sister organization, Trisha Ambara was created in Indonesia.

What We Do

We developed a child sexual abuse prevention program entitled, “Strengthening the Family.”

The children and families who are part of our program learn safety measures against sexual predators. In addition, they learn how to cope with the trauma related to child sexual abuse through therapy.

Prevention

What parents should know about child sexual abuse and how to best protect their children against sexual predators.

Education

Impacts or consequences of sexual abuse on children and their families.

Treatment

Provide continuous support for the child victim and his/her family.

Welcome To Our Family

Our organization is composed of professionals and compassionate individuals who have pledged to uphold our mission, that is to reduce the occurrence of child sexual abuse in our community, as we are expanding our partnerships nationally and internationally. We would love to welcome you to the Trisha Ambara family.

Why Trisha Ambara

According to UCANEWS, “sexual violence committed against children in Indonesia almost tripled in 2021, but true figures remain elusive because of a tendency not to report such crimes.” Therefore, there is an urgency to act now. Your partnership and support can help fulfill this life-changing mission.

Community Engagement

Work with community leaders in order to implement our child sexual abuse prevention program.

Partnership

Develop constructive partnerships with stakeholders from both the public and private sector.

Collaboration

Collaborate with other organizations and entities of similar interest and vision to tackle the identified problem more effectively.

Community Support

Provide support to victims through free counseling and psychosocial support.

KIDS PROTECT PROJECT

—Kids Protect Prevention Booklet, I Feel Safe

The aim of the Kids Protect Prevention Booklet, I Feel Safe, is to empower children to say 'No' (and keep safe) in threatening situations. Prevention and awareness is the key to maintaining child safety in our communities.

Kids Protect is an effective tool giving individuals, families, practitioners, and communities the opportunity to disclose, discuss, protect against, and prevent children from being abused.
